

Professional Development Opportunities for African Americans in Community Colleges in 2011

The National Council on Black American Affairs and the Presidents' Round Table invite you to embrace a unique opportunity in experiences that provide preparation for leadership

- Reality based learning
- Practical guidelines
- Mentorship
- Exposure

Leadership Development Institute for African American Mid-level Administrators

Target Audience:

Deans, associate deans, directors, faculty, classified staff, and others aspiring to upward leadership positions in community colleges.

For further information, see the NCBAA Website at www.ncbaa-international.org or contact Dr. Marian Shivers at marianshivers@bellsouth.net.

Thomas Lakin Institute for Mentored Leadership

Target Audience:

Senior-level administrators who aspire to the CEO or most senior position in a community college; must report to a vice president, provost, president or chancellor.

For further information, go to www.theprt.org and/or contact Dr. Charlene Mickens Dukes at cdukes@pgcc.edu and 301-322-0400.

Distinguished Faculty

Both Institutes provide experienced senior professionals renowned for their leadership expertise and their ability to mentor African American leaders in higher education.

The Leadership Development Institute for Mid-level Administrators and the Thomas Lakin Institute will be held concurrently October 16-21, 2011 in Detroit, Michigan.