Wright Colleges' Literary Magazine, The Wright Side,
Awarded First Place Award by American Scholastic Press Association

THE CHANCELLOR

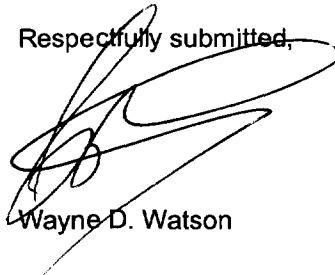

REPORTS

The 2001 issue of The Wright Side, Wright's literary magazine was awarded a First Place award by the American Scholastic Press Association. The magazine reflects the varied literary talents of students at Wright College.

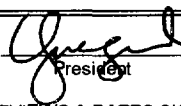

The literary magazine is published each spring and is supported through the voluntary efforts of faculty and students of the English Department. Students submit original essays, fiction and poems, which are read by members of Faculty and Student boards. Three members of each board read entries prior to acceptance for publication. Students, faculty and staff are invited to submit entries, although the 2001 issue contained only the work of students.

The Wright Side provides many English and journalism majors as well as students in other disciplines with a forum for their original works. It has been a stepping stone to national recognition for several student writers.

Respectfully submitted,

Wayne D. Watson
