Wright College
 Environmental Technology Program
 Argonne National Laboratories

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES:

THE CHANCELLOR
 REPORTS

that on Wednesday, September 18, 2002, the Environmental Technology Program(ETP) at Wilbur Wright College awarded 16 ICCB Certificates in Environmental Technology to students who are incumbent workers at the Argonne National Laboratories, a Federal research facility of the Department of Energy that is administered by the University of Chicago. The graduation ceremony was held at the Laboratory with Vice-President Lynn Walker and ETP Program Director, Dr. Victoria Cooper, representing the College at the event.

Argonne contracted with the WWC ETP program to better prepare employees currently employed in environmental careers at the Laboratory and to prepare other employees interested in preparing themselves for future posting in the environmental professions. The Chief Operating Officer of the Laboratory, Michael H. Derbidge, as well as a Division Director and managers whose staff participated in the program attended the ceremony representing the Laboratory.

The students attended class at the Laboratory from 3:30 to 6:30 every Wednesday for 45 weeks a year, for two years, in order to complete the 6 class, 18 college credit requirements of the Certificate. Adjunct Faculty of the ETP, with expertise in various environmental disciplines, taught all the classes on site at the Laboratory.

Four additional students received recognition for completing 5 of the 6 classes required for the Certificate. These students will be able to complete their class work during the Spring 2003 semester through the Center for Distance Learning. The ETP will be offering three of the basic classes of the Certificate program being developed with resources provided through a grant from ILLCO awarded to the ETP in July of 2002.

Respectfully Submitted,

Dr. Wayne D. Watson
 Chancellor
