Preparing Learning-Centered Faculty
For the 21st Century

TO THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES;

THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS

On Sept. 12 Loyola University, Wright College and Harold Washington College collaborated to sponsor a one-day conference on "Preparing Community College Faculty."

The conference was underwritten by a FIPSE Grant, which has supported the new Certificate Program in Community College Learning and Teaching offered through Loyola University.

HWC was the pilot community project in which eight faculty participated in the first cohort of the nine-credit hour program. Wright College will be the second participant before it is opened to all colleges.

Respectfully submitted,

Dr. Wayne D. Watson
Chancellor
