ADJUNCT GIVES PRESENTATION ABOUT ONLINE COURSE
TRUMAN COLLEGE

THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS that Truman College Biology adjunct Dr. Kim Aaronson recently gave a presentation, Building an Online Course: Problems and Solutions, at the Illinois Online Network's Faculty Summer Institute in Springfield; and that Dr. Aaronson developed his own online course for Medical Terminology after an exhaustive search of publishers turned up nothing useful; and that his presentation was a chronicle of the practical problems he encountered building the course and how he solved them, both in the development and teaching phases; and that the course is now in its fourth semester at Truman.

Respectfully submitted,

Wayne D. Watson
Chancellor
