County of Cook and State of Illinois

STUDENTS SAY INSTRUCTORS MADE AN IMPACT ON THEIR LIVES
TRUMAN COLLEGE

THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS that chemistry professor Joy Walker received an email from a former student, Milan A. Hrebenak, an electronics technician for the US Postal Service, who said that if it weren't for the accelerated electronics course she developed in the late '90s he wouldn't be enjoying the career he has today; and that French instructor Maryam Damghani also received an email, this one from the mother of one of her students, thanking her for coaxing her daughter back into French classes after she dropped out in spring due to a personal setback; and that not only did the student succeed in French, her mother reported, but her success has prompted her to continue her education, with great results, in other academic areas.

Respectfully submitted,

Wayne D. Watson
Chancellor
