that on Monday, September 18, 2006, a Constitution Day observance was held at Harold Washington College. Margaret Johnson and Diane Adams, members of the Social Science Department, sponsored this year's theme, "Freedom of the Press," and that a panel discussion was moderated by Model UN Club former president Ayman Shtta. Panelists for the event included Neil Milbert of the Chicago Tribune and Marcus Hirsh, an independent feature writer, who responded to questions presented by the moderator and took questions from the audience of over 250 students, faculty and staff, and that President Wozniak joined in the event extending a warm thank you to the panelists and all in attendance for their participation and thoughtful questions and answers. At the finale of the 2 hour forum, refreshments were served and the panelists took additional questions from interested students.

Respectfully submitted,

Wayne D. Watson
Chancellor
