County of Cook and State of Illinois

NEW THEATER COMPANY WILL SHOWCASE STUDENT TALENT
TRUMAN COLLEGE

THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS that the curtain went up November 14 on the inaugural production of the new Truman Theater Project, Who's Afraid of Affirmative Action?; and that play, a comedy by professional actor and Truman instructor Varrick Douglas, is based on Edward Albee's award-winning drama, Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?; and that the cast includes Rick Reardon, also a professional actor and teacher in Truman Middle College, Jacqueline Stone, founding member and executive director of the TUTA Theatre in Chicago, and Truman students Sylvester Miller and Angela Cordero; and that Reardon, the Truman Theater Project's artistic director, created the company to showcase Truman student actors and playwrights, but eventually hopes to draw playwrights and actors from the other City Colleges of Chicago and produce shows on other campuses.

Respectfully submitted,

Wayne D. Watson
Chancellor
