THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS that on Saturday, May 30, 2009, Malcolm X College (MXC) Continuing Education department, in collaboration with the MXC Adult Education department and the MXC Office of Enrollment Management and Student Services, hosted the inaugural Karnak Institute Seminar Series. Named after the ancient Egyptian temples of knowledge, the Karnak Institute Seminar Series is designed to serve as a community forum to share ideas that affect our community and to create a culture that embraces lifelong learning and education. Dr. Leonard Ingram, a Chicago Board of Education consultant with more than 25 years experience working with adolescents, presented a workshop entitled, “Strategies for Working with Angry Adolescents.” The second presenter, Dr. Edyth E. Young, a certified reading diagnostician, presented a workshop entitled, “Empowering Students Who Think They Can’t Read.” The workshops were attended by forty-three (43) Chicago Public Schools educators, parents and MXC staff and faculty.

Respectfully Submitted,
