REPORTS

that on June 6, 2009, Malcolm X College hosted the celebrity Cook County Night Basketball League (CCNBL) Kick-Off and Press Conference. Cook County Board of Commissioners President Todd Stroger participated in the event to announce the CCNBL's holistic approach to anti-violence programming aimed at youth ages seventeen (17) to thirty (30). The program offerings include health physicals, medical screening, counseling, life skills/leadership development, employment training and job placement, and registration in GED, Continuing and Adult Education, and College Credit classes.

that the City Colleges of Chicago is the education and facilities partner of the initiative. Other CCNBL partners and participants include Bob Love, Director of Community Affairs for the Chicago Bulls, and Commissioner of CCNBL; retired Judge Rau Figueroa; Dan Cantrell, District Director for U.S. Representative Danny Davis; Darlene and Howard Sandifer, Administrator and Executive Director of the Chicago West Community Music Center; Romonski Luv of V-103, Dennis Holmes, Executive Director of CCNBL; Darryll King of the "Bling Bling" from Soul 106.3 FM and 102 FM, who is also the spokesperson for CCNBL Ambassadors; and former NBA basketball professionals Mickey Johnson and Andre Wakefield.

Respectfully submitted,

Wayne D. Watson
Chancellor
