

30531

ADOPTED – BOARD OF TRUSTEES COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT NO. 508

August 5, 2010

BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF COMMUNITY COLLEGE DISTRICT NO. 508 COUNTY OF COOK AND STATE OF ILLINOIS

OLIVE-HARVEY COLLEGE
PROFESSOR OF ENGLISH & LITERATURE, DIKE OKORO EDITS COLLECTION OF SHORT STORIES

THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS that Dike Okoro, Professor of English and World Literature at Olive-Harvey College, Chicago, is the editor of a new collection of short stories by African Writers entitled Speaking for the Generations: An Anthropology of Contemporary African Short Stories.

that the collection, published by Africa World Press (Trenton, NJ), includes forty-eight stories that exemplify the rich narratives, cultures, and customs of the African continent. The themes of the short stories include love, family, relationships, death, politics, exile, childhood, gender, struggle, rage and hope.

that Dr. Okoro is a poet, short story writer, editor, essayist and critic, and has published widely in major journals/magazines/books.

Respectfully submitted,

Cheryl L. Hyman
Chancellor

August 5, 2010