THE CHANCELLOR

that on Saturday, September 25, 2010, American Red Cross conducted the first of two workshop sessions at Harold Washington College called "Community Disaster Education Leader Training," from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m., and;

that the purpose of the first workshop session was to learn about the humanitarian mission of the Red Cross, the services provided to the community, and how participants can be Red Cross Ready, which emphasizes important actions that every individual and family can take to better prepare themselves for disasters, and;

that the second session was held on October 2, 2010, and;

that there was no tuition or fee to attend both sessions because the American Red Cross provided the workshops as a community service project for Encore Colleges Students of Harold Washington College.
