THE CHANCELLOR

REPORTS that Wilbur Wright College's Battery Recycling Program run in cooperation with the City of Chicago is nearly at the one ton mark in battery recycling. Instituted late in calendar year, 480 pounds were recycled in 2008. For calendar year 2009, the City reported that Wright's program recycled 1440 pounds of batteries for a total of 1920 pounds recycled to date. Our goal for calendar year 2010 is to recycle one ton of expired batteries.

that recycling batteries keeps a variety of toxic organic and inorganic chemicals out of landfills and prevents their leakage into the environment.
