The Centers of Teaching and Learning

Malcolm X College is tackling Teaching and Learning for 2030. In that vision, there is a need to adapt our spaces for faculty to facilitate the environment and pedagogy that supports engaging, collective and technology rich strategies. Below are our transitional projects:

Transition of:	Before	After
Center for Teaching and Learning: Transformed to: Center for Teaching Pedagogy
Library Resource Room: Transformed to: Center for Research Integration

The Centers of Teaching and Learning

Here are our new projects :

New Center	Plan	Why?
Model Classroom at West Side Satellite Building		Supporting the next steps in Teaching and Learning by modeling best practices in collaborative technology rich teaching.
Social Justice Wing of the Library		Constructing a glass entrance and exit in a corner area of the library to build a Social Justice Wing that will support a collaborative effort between Social Science and Literature giving voice to student book talks and guest authors with engaging conversation that would not describe the quiet holistic space in the Library
