THE CHANCELLORREPORTS

that thirteen students graduated from Wright College's Psychiatric Rehabilitation Certificate Program (PRCP) Jan. 15. This was the fourth class at Wright College to graduate from the program and was the largest, having more than twice the usual number of graduates.

The certificate program is comprised of a four-course classroom sequence along with a 156 hour internship combining theory and practice and testing. Students are prepared for work in the field of Psychosocial Rehabilitation.

The curriculum was designed by the University of Chicago and is taught at several community colleges throughout the state.
